MORE SERVANTS TELL TALES ON MRS. GOULD.

Bellboy and Waiter Testify That Dustin Farnum Visited Millionaire's Wife at Lynchburg, Va., and Breakfasted in Her Apartment.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.)

NEW YORK. June 17.—The spot light of the cross-examination continued to oscillate today in the trial of Mrs. Howard Gould's suit for separation from the estate of Castle Gould and the St. Regis Hotel, to the farm at Blue Gap, Va., and the Gould yacht, and back to New York again, where the documents in the case hung on Dustin Farnum, it never got very far away from the butler's keys to the wine cellar.

Dalancy Nicoll, counsel for the husband, was willing enough to adduce testimony that the wife was affable when herself, if only he could bring her good nature into contrast with testimony that tended to show her violent, abusive, uncertain in her motives and confused in her actions when she was alleged to have been drinking. There was no statement of Mrs. Gould's sex, and the butler's recitation grew heavier, she shrank visibly and a look of pain came into her eyes, as if, though she might have read or seen such things, it was a new realization for her to hear them applied directly to herself.

At other times she smiled broadly, but in her more serious moments several times started the witness out of countenance.

GUEST SAW HOSTESS DRUNK.

Only once was there a break in the procession of footmen, butlers, chauffeurs, maid-servants, waiters and bellboys, on whose testimony it is sought to prove that Mrs. Gould was an unlovable wife and that was when Mr. Nicoll called in Mr. Chapman, a broker, who was a guest at the Goulds on the Niagara during several cruises in the year 1901.

He was asked if he had known Mrs. Gould undeniably drunk, he testified, and led by Mr. Nicoll, he described several alleged outbreaks, with emphasis on the overbearing manner of the wife to the extent that her husband was to sue and conciliate her.

In the effort to discredit this witness, Mr. Shears drew the ugly word "whimiscal" from Mr. Nicoll and became so angry at the use of it that he was asked to leave. Mr. Nicoll apologized for using it.

As Mr. Shears has announced that he will call fifty or more witnesses to refute the testimony of the defense, it is probable that the trial will continue for another week or ten days.

To shorten it as much as possible, Justice Dowling is holding court until 8 o'clock daily.

SET GARDEN AFIRE.

Andrew Fiedrichsen, who was embezzled, as he claims, of $10,000,000, the first witness called, testified that he saw Mrs. Gould under the influence of liquor, in his opinion, on November 2, 1908.

He was in the evening, he said, making the rounds of the house, when he noticed a fire in the kitchen garden near the wash-house and saw a woman coming from that direction. He went up to her and asked, "Who is Mrs. Gould?" and something, was Mrs. Gould, and something, was she not? and something, I went into the kitchen garden and found the smoke arise in three plumes.

While I was putting out the fire I heard loud voices in the kitchen and went in and found Mrs. Gould there. She asked me if I was the man she met. I told her I was and she wanted me to go to the police station. I rang the electric alarm, but I told her I could not, as I had to watch the place. Her face was flushed and she talked rapidly and appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

The witness said he saw Mrs. Gould again the same night, and in his opinion she was intoxicated then.

DIZZY CRUISE.

Edward Bechtold, who was in charge of the wines and liquors aboard Mr. Gould's yacht Niagara in December, 1908, when the crew were celebrating with the party of friends, testified that he saw Mrs. Gould intoxicated several times during the cruise, and that at dinners she drank more than any one else. On one occasion after a dinner at Kingston, Bechtold said Mrs. Gould took hold of a chair to steady herself, "and she had to take a long breath before she could go to her stars."

On cross-examination the witness said he had made an affidavit for Mr. Gould's lawyers and had talked with them about the cruise, and that he saw Mrs. Gould intoxicated on several occasions when he was on the yacht.

"You never heard Mrs. Gould curse or swear on that trip, did you?" asked Mr. Shears.

"Oh, yes, I did," said the witness. "One night in November I heard her curse and swearing. On another night when he was in the kitchen, said the witness, Mrs. Gould started to open the kitchen door, mistaking it, the witness said, for the door of the cabin which was a short distance beyond."

"She blushed and turned about and walked unsteadily toward her state room and I followed her there and she said nothing," said the witness.

Mrs. Gould frequently shook her head at the witness' answers and smiled sarcastically.

Chapman, the broker, who had been on the yacht, testified that Mrs. Gould was frequently under the influence of intoxicants and very abusive in her language to the servants and to the crew. On one occasion when Mrs. Gould had been drinking and became dissatisfied with everything and everybody, she would become greatly excited and would be unable to control the boat and that no one should take orders from any one but herself. The witness described two of those outbursts, one in Santiago and the other in Havana.

"What did Mr. Gould do and say on these occasions?" asked Mr. Nicoll.

HUSBAND SOOTHING.

"He invariably tried to soothe and calm her and pass the incident off pleasantly," replied the witness.

In endeavoring to get several letters from Mrs. Gould, Mr. Nicoll, his counsel, would impeach the credibility of Chapman, and which Justice Dowling would not allow admitted, the trial occurred between opposing counsel which called forth the several questions of Justice Dowling who requested Mr. Nicoll to apologize.

"This is only a case of blackmailing tactics practiced from start to finish in this case," said Mr. Nicoll. "There is no way of pressuring the administration of the letters. He was at once sternly reprimanded by Justice Dowling, and apologized, saying he meant no reflection on Mr. Chapman personally, but that he had been the attitude of others on the opposite side to extort money from his client."

Counsel for Mr. Gould read into the D. H. Hallock of Oklahoma and Carroll W. Gates of Los Angeles, Will Be Heard.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

GUTHRIE (Okla.) June 17.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Judge John H. Colter of the Federal Court here, announced tonight that on June 28 he will hear the motions to set aside the verdict of guilty, returned in February against D. H. Hallock of Woodward, Okla., and H. C. Carroll of Gates, the Los Angeles millionaire, who are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in acquiring land in Western Oklahoma.

They pleaded the same grounds for discharge as did Gov. Barker in having the first indictment against him for the Muskogee town lot frauds set aside, on the grounds that the grand jury was composed of twenty-three thousand men.

The charge against Hallock and Gates is that they used Kansas school teachers as dummies to secure sufficient land to make a big cattle ranch.

DENEEN FOR DIRECT VOTE.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR TO CALL A SPECIAL SESSION.

Executive Believes People Will insist on Making Nominations by Ballot and Also Advocates Deep Waterway Legislation—Senator-elect Lorimer in Opposition.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO. June 17.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Direct primary and intermediate waterway legislation will be Gov. Denen's slogan for the special session of the General Assembly which he probably will convene at Springfield in the latter part of October or early in November.

The Governor arrived in Chicago today, more firm than ever of the opinion that the people will not accept any thing except a direct primary law of some kind. He would not say that he might not agree to the measure with a convention feature, but intimated that the people would have to provide for pretty direct expression of the voters in the matter of nominations.

And, what Mr. Pauli says is quite true, affirmed Dr. McNutt, "but he forgets to add that it is men who are responsible for the very things he concerns."

APING ARISTOCRACY.

"But first and before we go any farther on the subject of extremes in styles," Dr. McNutt paused in his speech, "I must say that I am not speaking of these aristocrats."

Following the announcement of the Governor's action on the two important subjects, a lively summer in politics was predicted. Senator-elect Lorimer will take the opposite angle from the Governor on the waterway and also on primaries. On the former subject he has threatened to stump the state during the summer, assailing as dangerous and contrary to good public opinion the measure of the husband to assist and conciliate her.

In the effort to discredit this witness, Mr. Shears drew the ugly word "whimiscal" from Mr. Nicoll and became so angry at the use of it that he was asked to leave. Mr. Nicoll apologized for using it.

FIGHT ON FOR FREE PAPER.

Senators Discuss Wood Pulp Duty With Interest.

Tillman Calls Newspapers Humbug.

Senator Brown of Nebraska Is Champion.

ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.

WASHINGTON. June 17.—The fight to place wood pulp and print paper on the free list opened in the Senate today under the leadership of Senator Brown of Nebraska.

Going over to the portion of the chamber in which Senators Aldrich, Hale, Frye, Lodge, Gengenbacher, Smoot and other leaders have their seats, the Nebraskan sat in the midst of the opposing force and with wood nature parried thrusts that came to him from all quarters as he delivered a telling speech in behalf of the cause he had espoused.

Showing familiarity with all available information on the wood pulp and print paper side, Mr. Brown was frequently quoted from various authorities to sustain his contention that wood pulp and print paper both are produced in the United States with cheaper labor and cheaper material, resulting in a cheaper product than can be obtained in Canada.

Turning to his Republican colleagues, he said: "I am in a position, in view of the fact, they could justly be held on these products for the 'protection of labor.'

Senators Aldrich and Senator Hale fully contradicted this statement of the Nebraskan on the cost of production. They insisted that the Mann Committee of the House of Representatives, from which Mr. Brown quoted, was in error in its estimate. They also contended that, even assuming that report, it could not be maintained that the United States had an advantage in the production.

FREE TRADE ON PAPER. An amendment was introduced in the Senate to draw down the tariff on free paper to free trade papers, and levying a duty on paper used by protectionist tariff journals.

Mr. Brown still held the floor when the Senate adjourned earlier than usual to permit a Democratic caucus to meet and draw up an amendment for free paper tomorrow.

The Senate adopted the window glass schedule, placing a lower duty than is provided either by the Dingley law or the House bill.

Because of intense competition by German manufacturers, the duty on illustrated post cards was increased 25 per cent. above the Dingley law.

Immediately upon taking up the tariff bill the Senate agreed to an amendment previously offered by Mr. Aldrich relating to fine-clothing, other surface-covered papers and calenders, cigar bands, etc., composed of lithograph paper.

POST CARDS UP.

The duty on writing and typewriting paper, etc., as recommended by the committee, provoked a dispute. An amendment was offered by Mr. Bryan to lower the free trade paper duty and 25 per cent. ad valorem the duty on this class of paper. The amendment was voted down, 27 to 25.

By a vote to vote the Senate agreed to the committee amendment fixing the duty on illustrated post cards at 25 per cent. and 25 per cent. ad valorem.

As stated by Mr. Smoot, this very great increase was made necessary on account of the intense German competition.

On a vote to vote the Senate sustained the Finance Committee in its proposed reductions of duty on window glass below the House bill and the Dingley law rates; after rejecting by a vote of 25 to 23 an amendment offered by Senator Landon for still lower rates.

The Senate began the consideration of the print paper and wood-pulp provisions in the tariff bill, while Senator Aldrich, who had been instrumental in decreasing the duty on print paper from one-tenth to two-tenths of a cent per pound, which he said equaled $4 a ton, the Dingley law placed the duty at $5 a ton, and the House reduced it to $3 a ton.

Offering an amendment to place print paper on the free list, Mr. Brown declared that the paper industry did not need the protection of a duty.

RICKS PANIC.

"At the risk of creating a panic," he said, he would read to the President Roosevelt's message to Congress in response to which the House had undertaken to investigate the wood pulp and paper business. He then proceeded to read from the message, and when he had concluded, Mr. Tillman said:

"Those very papers that are asking for free paper are the very headlights of protection, and they give me the opportunity to buy this coat or these shoes (illustrating by pointing to the article in his attire), but they want free paper."

Looking about the Senate with a deep scowl, Mr. Tillman brought his foot down on the velvet carpet with resounding effect, he added:

"They are humbugs."

Then he took his seat.

Mr. Frye said that the average cost of spruce wood from Canada was $10 a cord. Mr. Brown said he would abandon his contentions and vote for $8 a ton on print paper if the testimony of one responsible witness in support of Mr. Frye's statement could be cited.

Mr. Aldrich and the House committee in recommending a rate on print paper did not take into consideration the difference in cost of wood at mills in Canada and the United States, and the Senate committee had added $1 a ton on that account.

LA FOLLETTE LONG-WINED.

SPEECH MAKER BOOK.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.

WASHINGTON. June 17.—The speech which Senator La Follette delivered in the Senate the tariff bill on the three days of June 2, 3 and 4, is printed in the Congressional Record. It covers 217 pages of the record.

This is not the longest speech ever delivered in the Senate. John A. Logan's speech in 1890 on the tariff bill was a cord.

Mr. Brown said he would abandon his contentions and vote for $8 a ton on print paper if the testimony of one responsible witness in support of Mr. Frye's statement could be cited.

Mr. Aldrich and the House committee in recommending a rate on print paper did not take into consideration the difference in cost of wood at mills in Canada and the United States, and the Senate committee had added $1 a ton on that account.

ANOTHER "JUNGLE" PROBE.

EAST ST. LOUIS (Ill.) June 17.—An official investigation of the charges against the government inspection system at the National Stockyards here was begun today by a board selected by Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, headed by Dr. W. H. Moore, chief of the Bureau of Animal Inspection. The sessions were behind closed doors.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPHS OF ADANA RUINS TO REACH COAST

View of City from Roof of American Mission, showing Adana as it appeared after the last fires on May 8. This and the other pictures published herewith are from photographs by Herbert Adams Gibbons, the first taken of the ruins, and used by the Turkish commission appointed to investigate the massacres.

ADANA MASSACRES.

port, and near the historic passes of the ancient city of Tarsus, where some of the refugees went, and which was also attacked by the soldiers. Nearly all the Protestant churches, as well as the Catholics, maintained missions and schools in Adana.

It was on April 14 when the first outbreak on the part of the Turks occurred. There was at that time in the three of a revolution. The attack centered in the Armenian quarter, some distance removed from the district occupied by the missionaries.

Two missionaries there were the Rev. Daniel Minor Rogers, of New Britain, Ct., and the Rev. Henry Mauer of Indiana. They saw that the fire which accompanied the looting and the massacre in the Armenian district would soon spread to their part of the city, and on the night of April 14 they were engaged in preparing for the worst.

The next day they were working when the Rev. Stephen R. Trowbridge, another American and a picture shows the row of buildings on fire and the three men working to extinguish the blaze. On the right may be seen the balcony from which the Moslem looter fired the fatal shots.

WHO ROGERS AND MAUER FELL.

Mr. Rogers was crossing the narrow street with a gall of water in each hand when he was struck by a bullet and died almost instantly. Mr. Mauer and Mr. Trowbridge were on the roofs the former working with a crooked, trying to get water to the fire. As he was shot he managed to get to the ground and fell by the side of Mr. Rogers. Mr. Trowbridge had his hat shot from his head, but was uninjured.

One of the first to arrive in the city after the riots started was Maj. Doughty-Wylie, British Vice-Consul, who brought his wife with him when they entered the city under fire. One of the pictures shows the first house to be entered after the massacre.

Others are the children, whose wounds are not serious. The woman beside the pump with a basin in her hands is Mrs. Doughty-Wylie, who did extraordinary humane service at the risk of her own life in the days that followed the first outbreak. Another of the pictures shows her treating a patient in the English Naval Hospital, which had been set on fire by the British. The wife of the slain missionaries and now that they were properly buried.

The riots and the looting which started on April 14, continued for days, and it was not until after May 8 that the last of the fires were extinguished. One of the pictures was taken with the camera pointing toward the heart of the Armenian quarter, and the shells of the buildings show the ravages of the fire and the smoke which was repelled as long as it could be.

RUINS OF GREGORIAN SCHOOL.

Perhaps the most interesting of all the pictures is the one where the ruins of the Gregorian School are shown by the walls on the right. At the time of the attack here, the rioting and looting had been in progress for ten days. The powers were sending naval vessels to protect their citizens, and missionaries from all parts of Asia Minor were asking for relief.

In Adana, the Armenian quarter was the scene of the most terrible of all the pictures, the one where the ruins of St. Paul's College in the city.

Many of the others sought a safe retreat in the missions and schools of the foreign colony, and they were welcomed there, although all realized that the people were determined to have them.

Mr. Lincoln adhered under cross-examination to his positive identification of the article as the one Brandenburg had given him. He had cut off the signature and preserved it, after sending the article to the composing room, he testified.

Mr. Lincoln read the original article he had returned to Brandenburg, after its publication; that Brandenburg had objected to the signature having been cut off, and that he informed the defendant that the signature would not be cut off again. On the trial date of the article had been questioned. He did not know that Brandenburg later voluntarily had returned the article to the newspaper office, following the agitation over its genuineness, although he might have been given to the male sex, what right to said article."

The second letter said, in part:

"I have examined the signature submitted to me by Mr. Ybarra, and compared it with others of Mr. Cleveland's will, to ascertain if the article was genuine. I have no reason to believe the article furnished by Mr. Ybarra is genuine. I have given to the girl graduate of St. Joseph's College and Academy today, F. S. Hastings, the statement made that the writer had given him the original formal written document, by which he had the exclusive right to said article."

"I want to remind you that woman should have a great mission in life. You should therefore have a deep sense of your responsibility in the domestic walks of life. You cannot have a better teacher than the church, but you can preach in your homes and reach those with whom you come in contact in your daily lives."

The second letter said, in part:

"I am entirely opposed to woman suffrage, not because I hate women, for I love them; and want them to fulfill the mission for which God intended them. If you play in the arena of politics, you will be covered with its dust. If you grasp too much you will lose everything. Nowhere is woman so honored as in the United States. This is largely due to the chivalry and courtesy of the men, and if you are protected by the male sex, what need do you have to oppose it?"

BREVITIES.

To "Liner" Advertisers: Dating from June 1st, classified advertising in the Times will be $1.00 per word, the present established rate of 10 per word in the daily issue and 14c Sunday. Close calculations covering a period of several months, develop the fact that the average number of words in the line are a fraction over seven. This basis for charge, therefore, will prevail after June 1st. Cash "want" advertising has always been calculated by the number of words, and it is to change the manner of handling it.

The present "want" ad rate has been in effect for many years, though the circulation of the paper, now more than 30,000 daily and 40,000 Sunday, has trebled during this period. No paper in the United States has ever charged, compares with The Times in "want" ad service. The Times-Mirror Company.

Remember the slogan: "Buy and Save Home Products." For daily references, see page 5, Part II, of The Times, containing list of wide-awake manufacturers under the heading "Made in Southern California." You will find there the manufacturers of necessities and luxuries home-manufacturers of things to eat and drink-things for the home, the factory, the office and the farm. Buy them! Try them. There are none better. Buy and Book and keep your money at home where it will be you and yours the most good.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—In the Courts and Offices

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Because a bidder's bond was $15.51 less than it should have been, the Board of Public Works cannot award him the contract for a large sanitary sewer.

Frank Bryson, Public Administrator, asks that he be named as administrator of the estate of John E. Myers, County Hospital, without heirs and leaving a credit account of $7154.65 with the German-American Savings Bank.

The suit of Police Matron Elizabeth Feely for divorce from Frank Feely was on trial yesterday.

There was a touching scene in Judge James's court when the custody of little Wilbur D. Ames was awarded to the mother, against the protest of George E. Ames, the father, who, coincidentally with the hearing, is sued for divorce.

AT THE CITY HALL.

LITTLE ERROR SPOILS BID.

MISS AS GOOD AS A MILE, IS CITY'S LEGAL VIEW.

Contractor Who Failed to Reach Ten Per Cent of Bid in Fidelity Bond by Few Dollars Loses Large Sewer Job—May Cost City Much to Readvertise.

The Board of Public Works looked anxiously at the City Attorney yesterday when it asked him if the bid of Mr. Leary, recommending the bid on section No. 5 of the Los Angeles main sanitary sewer, could be deemed in compliance with the law. But the man of law held that it could not be and thereby hangs a tale of how a good law sometimes has a bad effect.

Ten bids were received Monday for this work. They ranged from $72,000 to $33,189.05, on the same work, the low bid being Leary's. When the City Engineer computed them he found that Leary's fidelity bond tied with the bid, was for $33,00, instead of $33,189.51, as it should have been, to cover the difference which was the certified check or bond to equal 10 per cent of the price bid. As the bond was $14.51 short, the City Attorney was asked to give advice.

It was explained that the next lowest bid was that of J. C. Duncan and was $32,673.29, more than $3000 in excess of the price bid by Leary. The sewer in the bid for payment of one of the bonds issued in $3000 and the bond was anxious to hold the low bid.

"The law says," declared the City Attorney, "that the board shall not consider any bid that is not accompanied by a certified check or bond to equal one-tenth of the amount of the bid. If you can construe a deficiency of $14 not regular, in this case it is deployable that the board can consider the bid, but if the board tried to construe it so, the next lowest bidder could successfully prevent the award."

Whether to award the contract to Duncan, who had the lowest bid for section No. 4, or to reject all bids and readvertise for new ones was a question of policy the board took under advisement. The difference in price is small, however, that new bids will doubtless be sought.

The section of the sanitary sewer is of brick, from 24 to 30 inches in diameter, and extends from Slauson to Vernon avenues. It is another large branch of the outlet sewer.

The board has also asked the City Attorney another question about checks and bonds. It has been the custom to permit the bidder to use his option to pay his bid by handing in a certified check or a surety bond. It has been believed that the law gives the bidder this option, but if it does it is the belief of the board that it should not. The experience with bonds is that if the board accepted it would, if it could, substitute a general requirement for certified checks. The objection contractors make to such checks is that sometimes they bank accounts are tied up, which makes that, also, small contractors have not always the ready cash to meet the demand.

It is the belief of the City Attorney that the board should not consider any bid that is not accompanied by a certified check or bond.

The board will send the board a written opinion on this, as well as the sewer bid, today.

MYERS'S WHISKY.

COSTS FIREMAN POSITION.

When Hosemen W. A. Myers of Engine house No. 17, Santa Fe avenue and Seventh street, went to call on the company at engine-house No. 19, Main and Spring streets recently, he took along a pint flask of whisky. Myers paid a special call on Hosemen Simmons and McNamara of No. 19, and the social amenities were had there. Captain of No. 19 was not home yesterday and he joined the party and found the flask, in which about two "ingers" of the whisky remained.

Yesterday explanations were in order.

The captain, Captain Moore, admitted having the liquor, and Captain Moore told how Myers wanted to whip him when ordered from the engine-house. Simmons and McNamara denied drinking, and said the captain had scolded the party because they had a chance.

But the commission found that Myers had been drinking and that the others had been induced to do so. Myers was dismissed from the service by public reprimand of Simmons and McNamara ordered with the notice that another complaint about liquor would bring dismissal to both.

Hosemen Reddy Thomas, reinstated, is 24 years old, and because he failed to return to duty after his day off, the Chief said Thomas would never be a fireman, anyhow.

DOZEN SHOVELS A DAY.

ON PART OF DEFENDANT.

Jennie R. Myers, modern appearing lady residing in Pasadena, took much sympathy by the narrative she gave of the misdeeds of her husband, H. J. Myers, in Judge James's divorce court, yesterday. The charge was adultery, and she was granted a decree.

Mrs. Myers, the witness, crying like a child at her husband's diction, said she had suspected the marital infidelity of her husband for some time, and that when she remonstrated with him he became quite indignant, but did not hit her. The charge was adultery, and she was granted a decree.

Mrs. Myers, the witness, crying like a child at her husband's diction, said she had suspected the marital infidelity of her husband for some time, and that when she remonstrated with him he became quite indignant, but did not hit her. The charge was adultery, and she was granted a decree.

The proprietor of the Hotel Biltmore testified that on numerous occasions in January, 1908, Myers had come to his house with a woman, and when he registered them as a couple. Mrs. Myers's counsel of Mrs. Myers's counsel of the plaintiff in the action was the woman accompanying Myers to the hotel, the witness said that Mrs. Myers had come to the hotel with a woman, and the witness said: "We, that is to say, the two of us—she was much taller,"

WIFE APPEARS.

SPOOLS SECOND MARRIAGE.

The petition of Alice K. Turner for annulment of her marriage with George E. Turner was granted by Judge James yesterday. It appeared

The name of the afflity did not appear in the testimony. The last occasion when Mrs. Myers went to the Hotel Biltmore was on Friday night, January 12, when he occupied room No. 283 at that house. He registered as J. B. Myers and wife, Pasadena, Cal. The business card of the defendant indicates that he is connected with the Union Oil Company.

RUSH OF DIVORCES.

CALENDAR CLOGGED.

On Wednesday and yesterday it was necessary for Judge James to begin holding his court 5:30 o'clock in order to dispose of the pending divorce cases, an hour and a half in advance of the usual time. Yesterday in the morning session, eight cases were decided, and in the afternoon there were four disposed of. The calendar is congested with divorce actions alone, covering nearly all of the time up to November, when the time will be taken by the Superior judges. The divorce calendar will be shifted to Judge Houser. But little time is taken by Judge James in passing upon the divorce cases, if any, for the reason that the cases are backed by proper evidence, under the law, there is no much necessity of consuming time in details. Yesterday, however, cases took from 2 to 4½ hours. The evidence was conclusive and decrees were granted.

The cases determined in the past six days show a new awakening interest for divorce actions resulting. There are many asked for by reason of failure to provide, but these causes are also anonymous. The cases are a mixture of divorce and annulment. But the divorce is the allegation in probably nine cases out of ten, and many seemingly grew out of conditions in California. The parties will live in the East, and one of the two has ahead to the Far West on the agreement never carried out that the other shall join him or her later. The couple drift apart, a petition for divorce follows, and the decree is given. The decree must be granted if the allegation is proven. The number of allegations of material infidelity are but a small percentage of the cases in divorce petitions. Each case is a tragedy, but those whose business it is to daily hear the recitals of harrowing facts have had their consciences seared by the narrative.

EFFORTS OF CHURCH.
PROVE OF NO AVAIL.

In spite of the strenuous efforts of the pastor and leading members of the church, the pastor and leading members of the South Park Presbyterian Church to bring peace in the family of Charles E. Keating, he was married to a woman he had known and liked but who was a notorious woman, and the pastor accepted the woman as his wife. The pastor, who was a man of high moral character, was deeply grieved over the conduct of the wife, who was a woman of bad character, and the pastor apparently sided with that contention for, after the testimony of Mrs. Ames had been concluded, it was announced that the pastor had been instrumental in the allegation that the grandfather and mother contemplated leaving the State. There was no such evidence forthcoming, and the defense offered no testimony.

In making the order Judge James warned both Miss Leary and Ames that neither should discuss the marital difficulties with the couple when the law was called to see his wife. Mrs. Ames filed suit against her husband yesterday for divorce, alleging non-support, cruelty and habitual intoxication.

NON-SUPPORT.

POLICE MATRON COMPLAINS.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Feely, matron of the Los Angeles police department, is plaintiff in a divorce action partly heard by Judge James yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Feely testified that she was married to Frank Feely in Providence, R. I., June 5, 1894, and that she is now 45 years old. She said she was engaged in police work for several years before coming to Los Angeles. She had no support from her husband for two years, and the property she had when she married him was $2500. She has been married twice and has a son, 12 years old, and a daughter, 10 years old.

The testimony states that Danielson is not fit to be a father, and the husband would, if it could, substitute a general requirement for certified checks. The objection contractors make to such checks is that sometimes they bank accounts are tied up, which makes that, also, small contractors have not always the ready cash to meet the demand.

It is the belief of the City Attorney that the board should not consider any bid that is not accompanied by a certified check or bond to equal 10 per cent of the price bid. The sewer in the bid for payment of one of the bonds issued in $3000 and the bond was anxious to hold the low bid.

"The law says," declared the City Attorney, "that the board shall not consider any bid that is not accompanied by a certified check or bond to equal one-tenth of the amount of the bid. If you can construe a deficiency of $14 not regular, in this case it is deployable that the board can consider the bid, but if the board tried to construe it so, the next lowest bidder could successfully prevent the award."

Whether to award the contract to Duncan, who had the lowest bid for section No. 4, or to reject all bids and readvertise for new ones was a question of policy the board took under advisement. The difference in price is small, however, that new bids will doubtless be sought.

The board has also asked the City Attorney another question about checks and bonds. It has been the custom to permit the bidder to use his option to pay his bid by handing in a certified check or a surety bond. It has been believed that the law gives the bidder this option, but if it does it is the belief of the board that it should not. The experience with bonds is that if the board accepted it would, if it could, substitute a general requirement for certified checks. The objection contractors make to such checks is that sometimes they bank accounts are tied up, which makes that, also, small contractors have not always the ready cash to meet the demand.

There is a pretty Los Angeles stage experience in the latest can-cluding for her to be a teacher in the head of one of the Empire Theaters in Los Angeles.

PROPOSED LONG BRIDGE OVER ARROYO SECO.

Mr. Huntington Asked to Extend Eagle Rock Line of Los Angeles Railroad to Further the Project County Highway Commission is Interested.

The most ambitious project in connection with the good roads construction in Los Angeles county is a suggestion for a new and magnificent bridge over 500 feet long across the arroyo at Pasadena, which shall be a part of the much-talked-of "shorter trolley line" connecting Pasadena with Los Angeles by way of Eagle Rock.

The proposition is to have Pasadena and Mr. Huntington cooperate with the County Highway Commission in carrying out this project, sharing the expense.

The suggested bridge would debouch at the westerly terminus of Colorado street in Pasadena, affording an entrance into the very heart of the city. It would be a scenic structure, presenting a delightful and spectacular view of valley and mountains and the pictureque arroyo banks.

Property owners in Pasadena have been requested to subscribe to the enterprise in the form of gifts of land to finance the bridge and dimensions approach the bridge on the Colorado-street end. The matter has been broached to Mayor Earley and other officers of the Pasadena city government. The movement has not gone very far, but the suggestion has developed on the part of a large owner of property along the arroyo.

The yellow car line of Mr. Huntington (Los Angeles Railroad) is already at Eagle Rock, with a connection to the bridge at Pasadena. If it were extended via the Campbell-Johnson ranch to the arroyo, and should enter the principal business street of Pasadena, as is proposed, by way of this new bridge, Huntington would have found the ideal route between the Crows City and the City of the Angels, a genuine fifteen-minute route.

The project, if carried out, would enable vehicles of all kinds to travel a short cut from Pasadena and Los Angeles through the Eagle Rock country, avoiding the precipitous and circuitous route via Scovil bridge, the hill where the recent automobile accident occurred. Such a road would open up a beautiful residence territory both on the west bank of the arroyo and in the valley between the two cities.

It is known that there has been a conference between the two between and Mr. Huntington. Backers of the proposition are very enthusiastic over it.

TRIALS OF A PRINCESS.

Do Sagan's Wife Must Pay for Pearl Necklace Bought by Count Boni.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.

PARIS, June 17.—Princess De Sagan, formerly Anna Gould, and later the Countess De Castellane, appealed some time ago in the Court of Cassation against the judgment of a Paris court which directed her to pay $34,000 to Mme. Wimhoff, as the price of a pearl necklace which the Count Boni de Castellane bought before her divorce from him, and which, she asserts, she never received, but never even saw.

The Chamber of Petitions of the court has now rejected the appeals of the Princess, on the report of Counselor Louis and concurred in the conclusion of Advocate-General Feuillie.

speaking in the Washington Post. "The burnishing of the Dutch neck is something that requires study. So many times the Dutch neck is too dark, and so many need to be made too Dutch to be pretty. This is the way I treat the Dutch neck. First I rub off into it, then soap and scour it. There is something about the human neck that makes it look good. It is strange but true, that the neck needs scrubbing even more than the face. It takes a coarse flesh brush to do it just right, scrub and rub until it glows. Then I massage it with high swift strokes that leave it lobster-red. As the red tones down, the neck is a pale flesh color and as smooth as velvet."

"I believe that a little handwork is worth a great deal to the skin. In Egypt you know, the ladies make their faces soft and glowing by rubbing the skin with oil and perfume. The complexion seems to absorb the oil and to bloom after an application. It was in India that I learned how to burnish the arms. A lady of Calcutta showed me how to make the arms very white—so white that they were almost blue—by using a cut fig dripped in lemon or lime. I have bleached arms so that the fashionable turmeric mask could be worn next the skin."

Frills and Fripberries.

Some of the petticoats worn with the high-waisted skirts are made with a wide-fitted waist.

Many are made with a wide belt.

Hat styles demand that the hair be set in the front, wide at the sides and full at the back.

Colored embroidery makes up many of the prettier neck bows and collars.

Gold bracelets with dainty silver or gold deposits are among the novelties in the spring jewelry.

The silk skirts are very tight fitting to the knees; then a full sun pleating is used at the waist.

The prettiest with fitting and semi-fitting, the director and the empire, are all holding their own.

Necklaces of small cut jet beads will be in vogue, according to those who favor the collarless gown.

Real pockets, long and flat, are concealed beneath the trimming on the skirt on many of the tailor made.

Close to this in the color of the cloth skirt with them are the bows prevalent at fashionable out-of-doors affairs.

A great many collarless gowns and wraps are appearing and the collar band is becoming more and more scarce.

A parasol in pounces of natural color, lined with silk rose, and with director and empire.

There seems to be no doubt that the plaited skirt is on its way back, though in just what guise remains to be seen.

IN DEFENSE OF THE ENGLISH SPARROW.

BY ISAAC NOTES.

So much abuse is heaped upon English sparrows that it seems some one should say a word in their favor. They are called street gamins, Arabs, thieves, bullies, dirty, scoundrels and quarrelsome; from close observation I hardly think they merit this condemnation. They get their food from the street, sometimes from the gutter, but there is a dainty aloofness about them which prevents their feathers from coming in contact with dirt. They always look neat and tidy, though the birds appear to have a very pleasing color. They do not stay in the street longer than is necessary to secure food or to bathe, and if the streets were as clean as they find them the sparrows would be as cleanly as bluebirds or robins. It is true they sometimes bathe in dirty water running over the sidewalks from doors where people are scrubbing floors inside, but this is after all a sort of exercise, and birds are not the necessity of bathing and are heroically making the best of bad conditions. If they had clean bathing places, as they should, they wouldn't bathe in dirty water. The birds need not bathe for bathing as much as they need it to drink.

While English sparrows live amid dirty surroundings, they preen their feathers more than any other bird, as is realized in the necessity for this from the condition in which they live. I have often seen an English sparrow spend an hour at a time preening its feathers as it sat upon a limb near the nest, but every day, either in the morning from 9 to 10 o'clock or in the afternoon from 4:30 to 6 o'clock, just after it had been picking up food in the sun, it would fly to a branch, stand there in the spring and roosting there in winter. So if the little English sparrows were to leave the cities what other birds could take their places in such numbers, and given that atmosphere of cleanliness to snowy city streets which they inhabit?

They seem to love their homes and nestlings more than almost any other bird. I have often seen the old birds go and when the nestlings were of sufficient size, fly out at right angles to its body, as if to ventilate them. You will see them at this only in pleasant weather, especially if a slight breeze is blowing. As it is, the sparrows are more and more grayish until it looks like a little ascrech owl or a round ball of clean wool. But none are ever as ugly as the English sparrow.

As to their being quarrelsome and pugnacious, I do not think they deserve such a condemnation, either.

There is an element of selfishness in the bird which has had the care to make its nest in a hole in the tree, and the bird grows more and more grayish until it looks like a little ascrech owl or a round ball of clean wool. But none are ever as ugly as the English sparrow.

it, struck viciously at him.Again and again the writhing body came over with the revolution of the

the reptile's head so violently against the back of the seat that it was stunned and dropped to the ground.Mr. McKinney said it was not a very pleasant experience, for the "bull" snake's bite, though not fatal, will make a person quite ill when the reptile

Union street. One of the horses slipped on the car track and fell, striking his head on the rail which had broken. The other horse fell down on top of it, and before the two animals

High School will be held at the First Methodist Church this evening.
Rev. Matt S. Hughes will deliver the commencement address on "The Use of Knowledge." Eighty-one graduates school, will receive diplomas. The diplomas will be presented by Benjamin Page, acting president of the Board of Education.F. L. Alderman, No. 1289 North Los Robles avenue, reports that tools valued at $30 were stolen from his tool chest, left at No. 255 Flower street.The Board of Trade has been asked to assist in the effort to have a Congressional committee visit California in the interests of good roads in the Yerba Buena Valley.Miss Adele Rafter, the leading woman at the Majestic Theater in Los Angeles, who was injured in an auto accident near Vista, Visita Wednesday night, is still confined to her room at the Pasadena Hospital and was swept off her feet. When taken from the pool she was unconscious, but soon revived.When he went out to milk that evening he was startled to find that he had been followed by a big "bull" snake about the size of his thumb. He killed it to kill it, but the reptile made its escape. When he returned to the house the snake followed him, apparently bent on avenging the death of its companion. The snake again attacked and again was killed.This morning he hitched up his rig, and, with his wife, started to drive to Artesia.As he drove along the road, the snake came slithering out of the grass along the driveway and made a strike at the horse's feet. The animal shied, and the snake passed under the buggy and wrapped a ring of its body around one of the spokes of the rear right wheel. As the horse was steered to the level, the snake hit

it, struck viciously at him.Again and again the writhing body came over with the revolution of the wheel, until it limped to a standstill at McKinney. Each time he dodged
the reptile's head so violently against
the back of the seat that it was stunned and dropped to the ground.Mr. McKinney said it was not a very pleasant experience, for the "bull"
snake's bite, though not fatal, will make a person quite ill when the reptile is very angry.

WILLIAMS OBSEQUES.

A large crowd of old residents and former residents of Romayne, Williams, familiarly known as Barney Williams, gathered at Central Park at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon.The funeral services were held under the big cypress trees planted by Mr.
Williams in 1878. The most recent to the spot where his old home was formerly located. It was almost buried in the beautiful floral offerings.Rev. Mr. Williams, the Episcopalian minister, read the Episcopalian service. He was assisted by Dean W. MacCormack, formerly of Pasadena. This was followed by the ritual of the Masonic Lodge. At Masonic Lodge, Henry Barnes, president of the Pasadena Lodge, told of the Masonic history of Barney Williams, who was secretary of the Pasadena Lodge for nine years, and was Master in 1878.An unfortunate feature of the funeral took place as the hearse containing the mourners was crossing Fair Oaks on Union street. One of the horses
slipped on the car track and fell, striking
his head on the rail which had broken. The other horse fell down on top of it, and before the two animals could be extricated from the tangle of the rails under which he had been locked in death. Mr. Williams, who had been waiting, andT. W. Maddex, superintendent of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway, had the management of the new Huntington bath-house stated today, that the formal opening of the bath-house would be on the 26th inst. andthe price of the admission for the workmen have been waiting, and for the past week.
